

Ruth 4:13-22 “Redemption Settled”

Main Point: In this final scene, the writer records the union of Boaz and Ruth, which produces a son, an heir, and a hope for Boaz, Ruth, and Naomi, as the story ends with the redemption of individuals, a family, and the future people of God.

I. The _____ of a _____

A. A _____ from _____

B. A _____ to the _____

II. The _____ of the _____

A. A _____ of God’s _____

B. A _____ of God’s _____

C. A _____ of God’s _____

III. The _____ of the _____

A. A _____ of God’s _____

B. A _____ of God’s _____

Additional Notes:

Key Points of Consideration & Application:

1.) What are some ways in which God’s providence is displayed and praised in a marriage and family, and what are some ways in which it is not acknowledged?

2.) How do I think of God’s grace, and what are some implications or applications of His grace in my life which I might not have thought about, or forgotten?

3.) What influences could a person’s family and cultural heritage have on them, and how can they affect their future generations?

Key Passage to Memorize & Meditate Upon: Psalm 145:3-5 (LSB) Great is Yahweh, and highly to be praised, and His greatness is unsearchable.⁴ One generation shall laud Your works to another, and shall declare Your mighty deeds.⁵ On the glorious splendor of Your majesty and on the words of Your wondrous deeds, I will muse.

Sermons to Listen to for Further Study:

Don Green: God Transcendent

Brian Borgman: Providence – For
Our Good and His Glory

