BOOK OF THE MONTH

Managing Your Households Well Chap Bettis

Managing Your Households Well by Chap Bettis presents the family as God's designed training ground for leadership, where both servants and leaders are shaped through everyday life. Building on a theological foundation for home management and child-rearing, Bettis connects leading a household with leading a church, emphasizing skills like communication, conflict resolution, and character development. He encourages readers to approach family life with intentionality, viewing its challenges as opportunities to grow in faithful leadership, ultimately equipping believers to serve and lead well within the church.
