From Pastor Jeff

As we continue to move toward full devotion to Jesus Christ in our lives personally, we talk about 5 Personal Practices. These practices are easy to remember with the acrostic, G.R.A.C.E.

The 5 Personal Practices are:

Grow through personal spiritual growth habits

Right place of service

Attend weekly worship

Connect to a healthy small group

Engage in the Great Commission

To make these practices practical and applicable, the following questions may help us as we seek to build these practices into our lives.

How will I Grow through personal spiritual growth habits?

- How am I going to fill my mind with God's truth?
- How am I going to pray?
- How am I going to fast?
- How am I going to give of my resources for kingdom causes?

How will I find my Right place of service?

- How am I currently serving?
- How will I go about finding my right place of service?
- Who does God want to touch through my life and ministry?

How will I prioritize weekly worship?

- How will I worship personally?
- How will I prepare myself to give myself more completely to God in the context of corporate worship?

How will I Connect with others in a healthy small group?

- Who am I connected to right now?
- What is my next step to get connected?
- Does God want me to be a leader of a small group?

How will I Engage in the Great Commission?

- Who am I praying for that doesn't know Christ?
- With whom does Christ want me to share the gospel?
- How will I share Christ with those around me?
- How will I impact the nations? Praying? Giving? Going?
- Who will I pour my life into that will be able to pour their lives into the lives of others?

This month as we celebrate Easter and all that Christ has done for us, it is a good time to reflect on not only His grace toward us, but our growth in Christ-likeness through His grace. “But grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. To him be the glory both now and to the day of eternity. Amen.” (2 Peter 3:18, ESV) May the questions above be a tool for our continued growth in Christ!

An Appetite for More of God

By Aaron Williams
www.worshipleader.com

The human appetite is a powerful thing. In fact, there aren't many things that control our behavior much more than our appetite. I mean, just take a few seconds and think about the last time that you were really hungry. When we are hungry food quickly becomes the most important thing to us. We'll do just about anything to satisfy our ravenous cravings. We've even created a word to describe the person who's unfulfilled appetite is causing them emotional distress. . .we call them "hangry".

Hangry – When you are so hungry that your lack of food causes you to become angry, frustrated or both (Urban Dictionary).

Ultimately, we know that our appetite for food is a good thing. Without it we wouldn't know when to pause our daily activities to eat. And consequently, because our intake of food is directly related to our energy level, if we fail to eat on a regular basis we'll lack the energy to live our lives. Simply put, our appetite is meant to lead us to the source of our energy.

This is not only true for our physical lives, but also for our spiritual lives as well. In the opening lines of Psalm 42, the Psalmist writes, "As a deer pants for flowing streams, so pants my soul for you, O God. My soul thirsts for God, for the living God." The Psalmist is using a metaphor to describe the inner appetite he has for God. Even better, he is correlating his spiritual appetite to a physical one that we all experience, thirst. In essence, he's saying that he has an inner longing for the living God and the nearest thing he can relate it to is thirsting for water.

We all have a spiritual appetite given to us by God. Augustine says it this way, "You have made us for yourself, O Lord, and our heart is restless until it rests in you." Here Augustine is speaking of the longing of every human heart. There is a void, a restlessness in our hearts that we all seek to fill. In Augustine's estimation, of which I agree, that longing can only be fulfilled by our Creator.

While Augustine is referring to the general void every one of us experiences, there is also a desire that is more specific than a general longing for "something more." Once a person is saved through faith in the work of Jesus Christ, that person is awakened to new life. Scripture says that person is a "new creation," the old has gone and the new has come (2 Corinthians 5:17). This moment of awakening, known as regeneration, is the inception of an eternal relationship with God. It's also the inception of an appetite for something new. Through the Holy Spirit, we are given new desires, a new appetite for God and things of God (wisdom, righteousness, and devotion) (Titus 2:12). Often times, however, we have a twisted view of our salvation. Instead of viewing our salvation as an ongoing exploration, we see it as a stationary event that we can look back on. Life with Jesus was never meant to be viewed or lived this way. Instead, life in Christ is meant to be a "glorious pursuit, the heart's happy exploration of the infinite riches of the Godhead." God is prompting us to pursue Him and to ultimately find our delight in Him (Psalm 37:4).

This is precisely why God gives us a spiritual appetite, to cause us to seek our well-being in Him. Just like our physical appetite leads us to the source of our energy, food, our spiritual appetite is meant to lead us to the Source of all vitality, God himself. So when we feel like the Psalmist and our souls are thirsting for more, longing for something deeper, we must learn to recognize that this very longing is a God-given provision to us. In the same way that He gave us hunger and thirst for food and water, He also gives us an appetite for more of His presence. If we are to live a vibrant spiritual life, filled with energy, strength, and health, we must regularly seek the God who alone can satisfy our desires.

Psalm 145:6 "You open your hand; you satisfy the desire of every living thing."

In closing, I want to give one practical step that each of us can take to see our spiritual desires lead us closer to God. When it comes to eating, our appetite is most helpful to our health when we respond to it with consistent and steady nutrition. Prolonged periods without food, inconsistency in our choices, and/or overindulgence can dramatically affect our appetite. Similarly, consistency in seeking God is crucial to our spiritual life. In Psalm 105:4 David wrote "Seek the Lord and His strength; seek His presence continually." In many other cases, David wrote about seeking the Lord in the morning, throughout the day, in the evening, and in his bed at night. It seems to me that David knew the importance of continually trying to live in the strength and presence that our Lord provides. This continual seeking will look different for each of us. The point is not to create some equation that we live within that produces God's presence for us. Instead, I suggest taking some time to think about how to invite God into everything that you do. Make sure not to skip even the most mundane things in your life like housework, paying bills, exercising, an even sleeping. Once you've taken time to think about it, do it. Ask God to be a part of everything that you are doing. Tell Him that you want to abide in Him and live out of His strength not your own. And then do your best to be conscious of His involvement on a day to day basis.

I've heard it said, "Our lives are formed by the habits in which we live." Let's together work to create spiritual rhythms in our lives that help us rely on God for everything that we are doing. He designed it that way.

created for connection

Here are some easy ways to connect in ministry and community:

Life Groups are relational environments of 8-12 people who meet on a regular basis with the purpose of growing closer together and growing closer to God. Our goal is that each person in the group takes one step closer to becoming like Christ as a result of interacting with God's Word and each other. Community is a vital part of life. God designed us this way. You don't want to miss out on this life-changing opportunity! If you are interested in joining a Life Group, you can sign up in the Worship Center lobby or online at www.fbcfm.com.

It is the goal of our Host Team to provide a 5-star experience to every guest, regular attender, and member by creating a warm and welcoming atmosphere through a simple and smooth process. We do everything from shaking hands to straightening up bathrooms. We want everyone who attends FBCFM on a Sunday morning to know that we are glad they are here and we prepared for their visit. We want to free them up to connect with God and others.

In 2013 alone, we had 540 First Time Guests. It is vital that we help all of them connect to our church family. If we don't help them bridge the gap from guest to connected attendee, they might never experience all that God is doing here at FBCFM. Our Link Team is designed to be a personal connection to help guests get plugged in to the life of FBCFM. The Link Team helps guests discover not just the programs of FBCFM, but the people of our church family. If this kind of thing gets you excited, please shoot me an email or indicate the Link Team as an area of service on your Connect Card.
