

Make Time

TODAY'S READING: Acts 17

It is so easy to get distracted by all the things going on. The pandemic, politics, your sports team or binge-watching your favorite TV show. Most of the time, there are too many things going on and it keeps us from spending time with God.

I like how Acts 17:10-12 describes the people in Berea. They welcomed the message with eagerness and examined the scriptures. How long has it been since you have been eager to read your Bible? When was the last time you examined the scriptures and really let God speak into your life?

Reading the Bible is a discipline. And just like any discipline, you must do it to get better at it. You have to practice reading your Bible in order to form the habit. Just like anything else, the more you do it, the better you get at it.

If you are honest, maybe it has been a while. If so, do not be upset about it. Instead, use it as a motivator to keep your relationship with God fresh. Determine to say no to the things that are keeping you from spending time with God. Ask Him to show you how you can move things around in your life to make more time for reading the Bible.

Maybe you can get up 10 minutes earlier each day. Perhaps you need to say no to some things to spend time with God. Whatever it is, choose to make time with God a priority in your life. Get excited about God's Word and make it a part of your life!

PRAYER: Lord, help me to spend time in Your Word. Help me create boundaries and habits that lead me closer to You.
