SERMON SUMMARY
PSALM 119

Walking in the Word

Sermon Title: The Path of Blessing

Date: May 31, 2026

Scripture: Psalm 119:1-8

Speaker: Darrin Wright

Main Idea

True happiness is found in knowing God, walking in His ways, and building life on His unchanging Word.

Sermon in Brief

True happiness is not found in wealth, success, pleasure, or self-discovery, but in knowing God and walking in His Word. The psalmist shows that the blessed life is marked by sincere, steadfast, and single-minded devotion to God. This does not mean sinless perfection, but a life whose direction keeps returning to God after stumbling. The sermon also emphasizes that obedience to God's Word leads away from shame and regret and toward lasting joy, freedom, and worship. In every season, whether joy or sorrow, certainty or confusion, the path of blessing is rooted in an unchanging God and His unchanging Word.

Key Quotes

"What you seek and what you keep will set the course for your life."

"The blessed person is not someone who never stumbles. The blessed person is someone whose face is set for God and who keeps returning to the Word of God when they stumble."

"The blessing of Psalm 119 is never ultimately found in changed circumstances. It is found in knowing God, trusting His promises, and walking in His ways."

Questions This Sermon Helps Answer

Where do I find true happiness?

How do I walk with God?

How can I stop drifting spiritually?

How can God's Word help me in a hard season?

What does obedience have to do with joy?

What does the Bible say about shame and regret?

Reflect & Respond

What am I seeking first most days?

Where am I tempted to treat God's Word as emergency help instead of daily bread?

What would it look like for me to walk more faithfully with God this week?

This Week

Before reaching for your phone one morning this week, spend 10-15 minutes reading Psalm 119:1-8 and asking God to direct your day.