

The Cultural Mandate and YOU

Instructions: Reflect on the following questions to gain insights into your unique calling and role in fulfilling the Dominion Mandate and Cultural Mandate.

Identity and Purpose: Who am I in Christ, and how does my identity as a follower of Jesus impact my understanding of dominion and culture?

Passions and Interests: What are the areas of life, culture, or society that I am most passionate about or interested in influencing or transforming?

Skills and Talents: What specific skills, talents, or gifts has God equipped me with that could be used to impact culture and exercise responsible dominion?

Cultural Engagement: How am I currently engaged in my cultural context (family, work, community, church, etc.), and how can I make intentional choices to reflect God's values and redemption (share and model the gospel) in these contexts?

Justice and Compassion: In what ways am I actively seeking to model compassion within my sphere of influence, and how can I further align with God's call for justice and mercy?
(Remember that gospel poverty is the greatest injustice!)

Stewardship: How am I stewarding the God-given resources in my daily life (money, home, environment, etc), and how can I deepen my commitment to healthy stewardship?

Relationships and Reconciliation: Are there broken relationships in my life that need reconciliation, and how can I model Christ's ministry of reconciliation in these situations?

Impact and Influence: What legacy do I hope to leave in terms of cultural impact and spiritual influence? How can I align my actions with this vision?

Serving Others: How can I serve others in a way that reflects Christ's love and humility, contributing to the betterment of society and culture?

Prayer and Discernment: Am I seeking God's guidance and wisdom through prayer and discernment as I consider my unique calling and role within the Dominion Mandate/Cultural Mandate?

Ultimately, your destination, the impact of your life, is the culmination of thousands of incremental decisions. What small steps flow from the above questions? What can you begin implementing, in a small way today! The journey begins with a single step, so to say.
