

The Knower and the Known

By Gail McElroy

He knows how many hairs are on your head.

He knows the exact number of the tears you'll shed.

He knows your great joys and feels your pain.

He is present in the sunshine, as well as the rain.

He knows His plans and purpose for your life.

He knows the victories, and he knows the strife.

He knows what you need every minute of the day.

He knows every thought and each word you will say.

He knows your broken heart, and how it will mend.

He knows every chapter of your story, and how it will end.

He knows of your loneliness, never leaving your side.

He knows your failures and how hard you've tried.

He knows all your secrets and the source of your shame.

He knows you completely, and He calls you by name.

He knows where you're headed and knows where you've been.

He sacrificed His life to cover all your sin.

He knows the exact second you will be set free.

He knows how and when you will enter eternity.

He knows the past, the present and the future to come.

None of His plans can be undone.

He knows where you're going and will show you the way.

He will guide your path each and every day.

So rest, dear sister, in the perfect love He has shown.

Surrender to the Knower, for you are fully known.