

Evangelism in a Skeptical World

Week 9

Styles of Learning, Story-telling (Chapter 7)

We all have different learning styles. Two of those learning styles are Abstract and Concrete-Relational. Abstract learners prefer point by point, theoretical concept learning while Concrete-Relational learners prefer a story based learning method. The majority of the world likes story based learning.

Story based learning allows us to communicate concepts without all the fancy words and it makes the listener see the world through our worldview.

The following are some stories that you can take, learn, and retell in your own words.

Genesis 1 (Creation)	Matthew 20:1–6 (Parable of the vineyard workers)	Luke 12:13–21 (Parable of the rich fool)
Genesis 2 (Man & Woman)	Matthew 22:1–14 (Parable of the Wedding Banquet)	Luke 14:15–24 (Parable of the banquet)
Genesis 3 (The fall/Sin)	Mark 2:1–17 (Son of man forgives and heals)	Luke 15:1–31 (Parable of the lost sheep)
Genesis 4 (Cain & Able)	Mark 15:1–39 (Jesus faces Pilate)	Luke 18:9–34 (Parable of the pharisee and tax collector)
Genesis 6–9 (Noah)	Luke 5:12–32 (The first disciples)	John 11:1–43 (Lazarus dies)
Genesis 11:1–9 (Tower of Babylon)	Luke 7:36–50 (Much forgiveness, much love)	John 20 (Empty tomb)
Genesis 12 (Abram)	Luke 8:4–56 (Parable of the sower)	Acts 16:12–34 (Paul & Silas in jail)
