The Last Judgment

Welcome to all those gathered with us around the throne of Our Lord! Here is where the Lord descends. And here is where He gives us His strength so that we may stand before Him without fear on the Day of Judgment.

The Theme of Today's Liturgy

“The Day is surely drawing near when God’s Son, The Anointed, shall with great majesty appear as Judge of all appointed” (Chief Hymn). Our prayer is that Our Lord judge us not according to our deeds, but rather by His Name and according to His strength (Introuit). When He judges us by His mercy and loving-kindness then we can be sure we are truly blessed of the Father (Gospel). And with that blessing already spoken, we do not fear the Last Judgment but instead have the “patience and faith” to face not only that day, but the day of death and any days that trouble us (Epistle).

The Sermon

The Son of Man will come in His glory to separate the sheep from the goats on the Last Day. Until the last day sheep and goats live side by side. We cannot tell who is a sheep and who is a goat. Christ will separate them. The goats will be sent to everlasting punishment. Eternal torment is the reward for their wickedness. Although we deserve this same punishment we are saved by grace. All of Christ’s good works are credited to us. He is our Good Shepherd and we go into eternal life.

The Holy Eucharist

As His Blood-bought sheep, Christ pastures us on His Body and Blood, keeping us steadfast until He separates us from this world, and leads us into the world to come.

The Readings

Daniel 7.9-14; 2 Thessalonians 1.3-10; St. Matthew 25.31-46

The Mass: Preface and Sanctus (Part 3)

It is worth noting that the way in which this thanksgiving is said does not even give reference to the ones saying it. For while the words “we give thanks” are certainly an acceptable and even biblical way to express gratitude to God, any time the giving of thanks removes altogether the first person (“I” or “we”) from the utterance, there is less opportunity for the speaker to take any credit for the fact that he is the one giving thanks, and consequently more glory implicitly expressed to God who is being thanked. This is the intentional basis for the common expression Deo gracias (Thanks be to God) or again, the in the words solī Deo gloria (to God alone be the glory). The speaker does not even appear in the expression, so fully is all glory directed to the One being thanked. So also throughout the Sanctus: “Holy, Holy, Holy! Lord God of Sabaoth! Heaven and earth are full of Thy glory! Hosanna in the Highest! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord!” These words, which combine Isaiah’s vision with Jesus’ triumphal entry into Jerusalem, provide us with two captivating images which, taken together, declare Jesus as Lord of Hosts coming to bring salvation to His people.

After the Preface, when the celebrant turns toward the altar for the Sanctus, the Mass represents the Passion of Our Lord and His resurrection., The celebrant does not turn again to the Faithful until after the Verba are said. He now enters, as it were, into the secret of the sanctuary, there to treat alone with God, much as Moses did on the mountain, or as the high priest would do in the temple, or ultimately, as those instances foretell, as Jesus did in His Passion. The celebrant now says the Secret, a private prayer, so-called because he says it in a low voice, in imitation of Jesus in the Garden of Olives, when He moved a stone’s throw away from His disciples, in order to enter into the silence of recollection and prayer.

Music for the Second-Last Sunday in the Church Year

The Prelude The Day is Surely Drawing Near —Johann Pachelbel (1653-1706)

The Postlude The Day is Surely Drawing Near —Heinrich Scheidemann (1595-1663)

The choral setting of “The Day is Surely Drawing Near” is by Daniel G. Reuning. The organ introduction is by Johann Ludwig Krebs.

The choral setting of “What God Ordains is Always Good” is by Johann Pachelbel.

O Jesus Christ, do not delay! The CHIEF HYMN, “The Day is Surely Drawing Near” (# 611) is loosely based on the ancient sequence Dies irae, dies illa (paraphrase at # 607). The hymn, having come to the attention of Bartholomäus Ringwaldt (1532-1599), Lutheran pastor in Lagenfeld, Germany, his attention in Christ’s second coming, the result of his study of Revelation, prompted him to revise the hymn for the 1586 Handbüchlin. Geistliche Lieder und Gebetlein with the heading “A hymn about the Day of Judgment, improved by Bartholomäus Ringwaldt.” The hymn became very popular and was frequently sing by congregations and individual Christians amid the horrors of the Thirty Years’ War (1618-1648). The final stanza in particular became imprinted in the prayerful hearts of many.

The PRELUDE is a setting by Johann Pachelbel, a German composer, organist and teacher who brought the south German organ tradition to its peak. He composed a large body of sacred and secular music, and his contributions to the development of the chorale prelude and fugue have earned him a place among the most important composers of the middle Baroque era.

THE PSALM FOR THIS WEEK IS PSALM 54. PRAY IT EVERY DAY!

In Psalm 54, we pray that the Lord use His strength and might for our benefit. For it is finally only our Lord’s strength that overcomes the many strangers and oppressors that attack us. Instead of defending ourselves, we pray that the Lord help us and uphold our life. In response, we bless and praise our Lord’s name and give Him the sacrifice of all we are. For He is the one who delivers and rescues us from every evil past, present, and to come.

Today's Announcements

HIGHER THINGS YOUTH GATHERING Higher Things assists parents, congregations, and pastors in cultivating, encouraging and promoting a distinctively Lutheran identity among youth and young adults.

This summer's Higher Things gathering rejoices in the gift of the Te Deum, "We Praise Thee, O God," a hymn of praise that gives us a foretaste of what's happening in worship in heaven and on earth.

Higher Things is July 21-24, 2015 in Grand Rapids. Fr. Schultz, Vicar Grieser, Michael Edwards, and Anna Baseley will lead the group from Zion. The gatherings are primarily geared toward high school youth, but confirmed students of any age and college-aged students may also attend.

Registration began November 1 and fills up quickly. Last year the conference was full by January. We will need to make reservations this week. Registration forms are available from Father Schultz.

THANKSGIVING DISPLAY Donations are being received for the fruits and vegetables that will adorn the altar at the Thanksgiving Mass. Place your donation in an envelope marked "Thanksgiving Display." Donations will be included in the bulletin on Sunday, November 23.

ADVENT MID-WEEK MASS Plan to attend the mid-week Mass during Advent as part of your preparation for Christ's coming to His people. Masses will be held on Wednesdays at 9:30am and 7pm in the Church.

now in flesh appearing!" The greeting inside continues with the refrain, "O come, let us adore Him, Christ the Lord!"

The second design is a beautiful nativity scene pictured on a Russian triptych. A triptych has artwork divided into three panels which are hinged together and can be folded shut or displayed open. The angels in the side panels are identified in Russian as Michael and Gabriel, while the text in the middle declares "the birth of our Lord Jesus Christ." (This is also noted on the back of the card.) The greeting inside states, "Glory to the newborn King."

Visit emmanuelpress.us to view all the cards and their inside greetings. They also offer variety with a new assortment set.
